4. Orders

By submitting an order to the Supplier, the Buyer agrees to be subject to these Conditions in their entirety. No order, whether or not submitted in response to a quotation by Supplier, shall be binding upon Supplier until accepted in writing by Supplier.

- 12.3 If Buyer rejects the Products installed it should submit to Supplier the reasons for such rejection in detail and in writing within ten (10) days after completion of the acceptance tests concerned. If, within Supplier's reasonable opinion, the rejection is justified, Supplier shall as a sole remedy correct the shortcomings as soon as possible and the relevant parts of the acceptance test shall be repeated within a reasonable period of time in conformity with the procedures outlined above.
- 12.4 Upon acceptance of the Products, Buyer will sign the acceptance certificate. If, within ten (10) days after completion of the acceptance test, Supplier has not received the acceptance certificate signed by Buyer or a report with a justified rejection, the Products installed shall be deemed accepted by Buyer. ADDENDUM B – CHEMICAL MONITORING POLICY

If Buyer is purchasing goods or Services from Supplier which are used in relation to monitoring or use with chemicals, the following terms and conditions will apply.

CHEMICAL MONITORING POLICY

Because of the variety of chemicals used, the varied conditions under which the chemicals can be used, and the extensive use of proprietary chemicals and gases, it is not possible for PMS to test all of the chemicals, and combinations of chemicals and gases, potentially used in its instruments. PMS has tested its products with many process chemicals and gases used in the semiconductor and related industries, and can assist the Buyer in determining compatibility of the instruments with chemicals which PMS has tested. PMS publishes the materials that come in contact with the process chemicals "wetted surfaces" to aid the user in determining compatibility. However, it is the responsibility of Buyer or any user to determine the compatibility and suitability of PMS instruments in each specific chemical, gas and user application prior to use. Details on wetted surface materials can be found on PMS published product specification sheets. In an effort to provide guidance to our customers the following is a partial list of chemicals that have been tested using PMS sensor and samplers: Acetone Water, Nitric Acid, Xylene, Ammonium Hydroxide, Sulfuric Acid, Potassium Hydroxide, 2-Propanol Hydrochloric Acid, Ammonium Fluoride, Sodium Hydroxide, Phosphoric Acid, Hydrofluoric Acid (HF), Trichlorotrifluoroethane (Freon TF), Trichloroethane, Methyl Ethyl Ketone, Hydrogen Peroxide, Acetic Acid (Concentrated), Toluene, Methanol.

It is important to note that not all PMS sensors are compatible with all chemicals. There are three (3) types of optical materials used in PMS sensors:

Fused Silica: Compatible with most chemicals with the exception of HF.

Sapphire: Compatible with most chemicals normally used in the semiconductor industry.

Magnesium Fluoride/Silicon Dioxide: Compatible with HF and most other chemicals with the exception of Ammonium Fluoride and Hydrogen Peroxide. Magnesium fluoride has been used previously in HSLIS or HVLIS sensors. Silicon Dioxide has been used in HPGP sensors. In both instances, these materials are used in anti-reflective coatings. If you are not sure which window material was used in the sensor in question, contact the PMS factory with the model and serial number of the sensor.

With regard to non-optical wetted materials, PVDF, which is used in some of the sample cells, is not recommended for long term use with Acetone. PFA Teflon is porous to some chemicals. Therefore, when changing chemicals being tested the sensor and/or sampler must be properly flushed with a suitable solvent. Buyer in most cases should be able to provide the relevant information regarding chemical compatibility and suitable solvents in a sensor or sampler. It is necessary to assess the effects of mixing the old chemical, which might have leaked into the Teflon, and the new chemical. In addition to chemical compatibility, Buyer should ensure the chemical temperature and operating environment meets the stated requirements for the product in question.

PMS also manufactures certain products with gas purge if that product may be used with flammable or reactive fluids or gases or operated in a corrosive vapor environment. Buyer should refer to the product specification sheets for those products with gas purge to determine any relevant certifications. In the case of heated chemicals or gasses, Buyer should avoid excessive thermal spikes and ensure the system is properly purged between chemical changes to avoid potential exothermic reactions.

Buyer must provide a suitable installation site and enclosure to meet regulatory and Buyer's internal chemical or gas safe handling requirements. Any enclosure should contain a spill to a safe area or direct it to a suitable drain while communicating a leak event. Such an enclosure should include isolation valves to support easy isolation and instrument removal for service. Unless otherwise stipulated in the quotation, PMS accepts no responsibility for damages caused by chemical or gas leaks due to inadequate installation or leak containment systems. Buyer should inspect all installations to ensure it meets their local regulatory and internal safety requirements before use.
